React Native Registration Workflow

- Rearchitected from the ground up for greater control and customization - Screens are all exported individually as independent components - Screen customizations available through screen components - Declarative syntax for building custom flows / reordering screens / adding or removing screens - Router independence (react-navigation still recommended) - Simplified internationalization giving users more control over translations - Additional actions for more back-end integrations - More robust error management solution - Dependencies updated to support the latest third-party versions

- This functionality will be available in our next release once the Auth Workflow architecture changes are complete

Figma Component Sticker Sheet

- Innersourced Brightlayer Chart's components into the Material Design 3 Figma component sticker sheet